How did the Fund perform in the last year?

The Fund seeks investment results that, before fees and expenses, correspond generally to the price and yield performance of EMQQ The Emerging Markets Internet Index (the "Index"). For the fiscal year ended August 31, 2026, the Fund delivered a total return of -18.57% at net asset value ("NAV"). Performance was primarily affected by weakness among application-oriented businesses globally, as companies accelerated investment in artificial intelligence ("AI") infrastructure, products and capabilities to support future growth. This trend was particularly pronounced in China, where several of the Fund's largest internet companies increased their AI-related investments, which weighed on investor sentiment in the short term. These elevated expenditures created a headwind to near-term performance as margins compressed across the affected portfolio companies. Performance was also affected by heightened geopolitical uncertainty stemming from the conflict in the Middle East, which disrupted global energy markets and contributed to a sharp increase in oil prices. Higher energy prices and increased geopolitical risk weighed on investor sentiment toward emerging markets and created an additional headwind for the Fund's consumer- and growth-oriented internet portfolio companies.

Householding

Rule 30e-1 of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, permits funds to transmit only one copy of a proxy statement, annual report or semi-annual report to shareholders (who need not be related) with the same residential, commercial or electronic address, provided that the shareholders have consented in writing and the reports are addressed either to each shareholder individually or to the shareholders as a group. This process is known as “householding” and is designed to reduce the duplicate copies of materials that shareholders receive and to lower printing and mailing costs for funds. Once implemented, if you would like to discontinue householding for your accounts, please call toll-free at 1-855-888-9892 to request individual copies of these documents. Once the Fund receives notice to stop householding, we will begin sending individual copies 30 days after receiving your request.
